The plan:

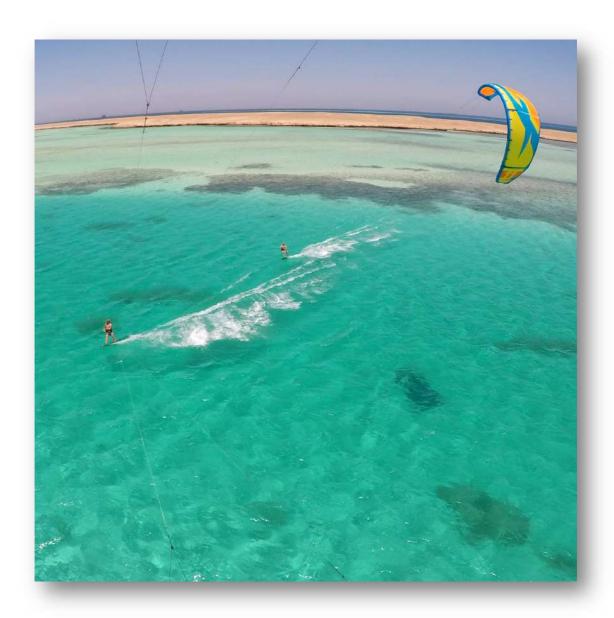

You will get picked up at the airport in Hurghada on the day of your arrival and head straight to the boat at Abydoss Marina in El Gouna for dinner and a good night of sleep before setting sail the morning after.

We will cruise around and anchor at various flat-water lagoons with crystal blue water.

Depending on the wind and the conditions we will chose the right spot for you to get the best kite experience possible.

Our main objective is to get as much kiting and coaching done so that you can improve and take your kiteboarding skills to a new level.

On our last day, the following Friday, we will go for an early bird session before returning to El Gouna, so that you can catch your flight back home the next day.

The coaching:

Coaching will be on 6 days during the trip, so there is plenty of time for you to improve.

We will film you during our sessions, so we can analyze and correct your movements in a de-briefing on the boat afterwards.

This is a key element to find even the smallest details which makes the big difference in landing those new tricks that will add more fun and style to your time on the water.

As advanced riders need the right tip at the right moment and time to practice afterwards we will get the best out of you to bring your kiting to another level.

Having your own equipment is mandatory for this trip.

If you don't have your own gear, or don't want to bring it on the plane, I can supply you with the newest gear from Cabrinha.

Just let me know in advance, so I can send you an offer for the rental prices.

Your skills:

You should be able to kite upwind easily and confident in re-launching your kite from the water as our spots will offer flat but offshore conditions. Anyhow, we will have a rescue boat with us all the time so no need to worry or holding back while trying out new tricks.

No wind activities:

For the safaris I chose times of the year with extremely reliable wind conditions here in Egypt. Usually it blows in between 15-22 knots.

As we all know kitesurfing is a nature sport, we are dependent on the wind to get on the water.

In case of no wind days we can choose from the following activities:

- In Depth Kitesurfing Theory, self rescue, how to trim your lines, etc.
- Wakeboarding behind zodiac
- Snorkeling
- Stand Up Paddling

See you soon...
